

Matrix Independent Component Analysis

Monday, 14 August 2017 15:30 (30 minutes)

Independent component analysis (ICA) is a popular means of dimension reduction for vector-valued random variables. In this short note we review its extension to arbitrary tensor-valued random variables by considering the special case of two dimensions where the tensors are simply matrices.

Primary author: Mr VIRTALA, Joni (University of Turku)

Presenter: Mr VIRTALA, Joni (University of Turku)